2025

A HOMESTUCK FANZINE

SAHCON ZINE 2024-25 WELCOMES YOU!

Every life begins on a birthday, as so many adventures do though in between those yearly recurrences of your first jubilee, you will find a lot more opportunities and causes to party with the friends you found since then.

The SAHcon 2025 zine is all about these celebrations, about community and togetherness, and, though this was not planned, it will now also raise a glass to celebrate the final SAHCon, the friends and experiences we made here and whatever comes next.

Cheers!

This zine was organized by SAHCon and moderated by Cro, Jonaya Riley, and Gilly.

Front & Back Cover Art: Nico (indigonite)
Final Compilation: Isaac Joey (hamsterdads), Ozuzo (ozuzoart) and Nethergloss.

To say Homestuck completely rewired my brain would possibly be an overstatement, but it did change me as a person and artist and it will always hold a special place in my heart. You can't fight the Homestuck!

Without Homestuck I wouldn't be where I am currently right now, this community has brought me amazing friends and great opportunity. So I give my thanks to this silly little comic for everything <333

BLUE

FAYGOS

faygos (tumblr)

Homestuck has helped me develop my skills as an artist and shaped my love of character exploration! I've also made some wonderful friends over the years in the community!

Discovering Homestuck at age eleven changed my whole life! Cheers to 15 more years and I hope you enjoy the zine!

OUROBORISTA

ouroboros.cafe (website)

This comic has killed me more often than is comfortable, but thankfully it has brought me back better every time. It has allowed me to be a zealot, a scholar and a novelist amidst some of the most inspired creatives I have ever met and I cannot wait to find out what role it will allow me to play next.

ZILLY

zillyhooo (tumblr)
ziwwyhoo (twitter)

Homestuck has led me to many close friends, happy memories, and much improvement, art-wise! It sounds a bit silly to say, but this silly webcomic is something I hold dear, having been in the fandom for over a decade.

RADZCATZ

radzcatz (tumblr/bluesky/cara)

I think the most useful thing Homestuck has done for me is be proof that unique stories are worth telling. Never be afraid to try something different!

SCRAPODDLES

scrapoddles (tumblr/instagram)

I've been a homestuck fan since I was 13 (which is, coincidentally, also when I was given a name), and I'm thrilled that I've finally got the art skills to participate in the cool fandom stuff that I used to admire so much. Creating content for a piece of media I love (and consuming content... perhaps obsessively) has helped me grow so much as an artist and writer. Thanks, silly little homestuck people!

EGGXIE

At 13, my best friend and I discovered mspaintadventures.com. I owe both my longest-standing friendship and my love of drawing to this silly, ridiculous, brainaltering comic. Thanks, Homestuck.

I got into Homestuck when I was 15 years old. I'm 24 as of writing, and I'm not joking when I say it fundamentally changed my brain chemistry. It solidified my love for complex queer female characters, and the fandom is one of the most fulfilling and creatively inspiring communities I've ever seen; an energy I now try to bring to every other fandom I join. I'll be here for life!

ISAAC JOEY

I discovered Homestuck about 10 years ago and came back because a dear friend of mine was re-reading it! It's always been something I've shared & bonded over with others, and for that, Homestuck has a special place in my heart.

MARS

_tamajikis (twitter/instagram)

i used to be embarrassed about how much time and brainpower ive spent on this comic but its given me so many friends memories and a ton of improvement artwise so maybe im glad i couldnt fight the homestuck. maybe the real homestuck was the friends we made along the way

NETHERGLOSS

nethergloss (instagram/tumblr)

Homestuck has accompanied me for many years, inspired me, influenced my art and stories and introduced me to a lot of lovely people. It's been quite the journey!

SELKIE

springselkie (bluesky/tumblr)

Homestuck has been a regular source of inspiration and joy for me as an artist for a decade. It's what I turn to when I'm dealing with art block, and I've made some of my greatest friends through Homestuck related art and cosplay. It is something of a universal constant to me.

MEZ

Mezcalor (instagram/bluesky)
mezzeerie (tumblr)

I started reading Homestuck because I needed to feed into my obsession of overextended dialogue, and I fell in love with the correlation of colors and symbols to characters. Worldbuilding intricacies and timeline lore aside, the characters and their many different perspectives encourage me to try new things with my writing! A whole cast of flawed characters with different goals presents so many sides you can take, that anyone could find something to connect with - I think that's what makes a story great.

MELI

buzzingRoyalty (tumblr/twitter/instagram)

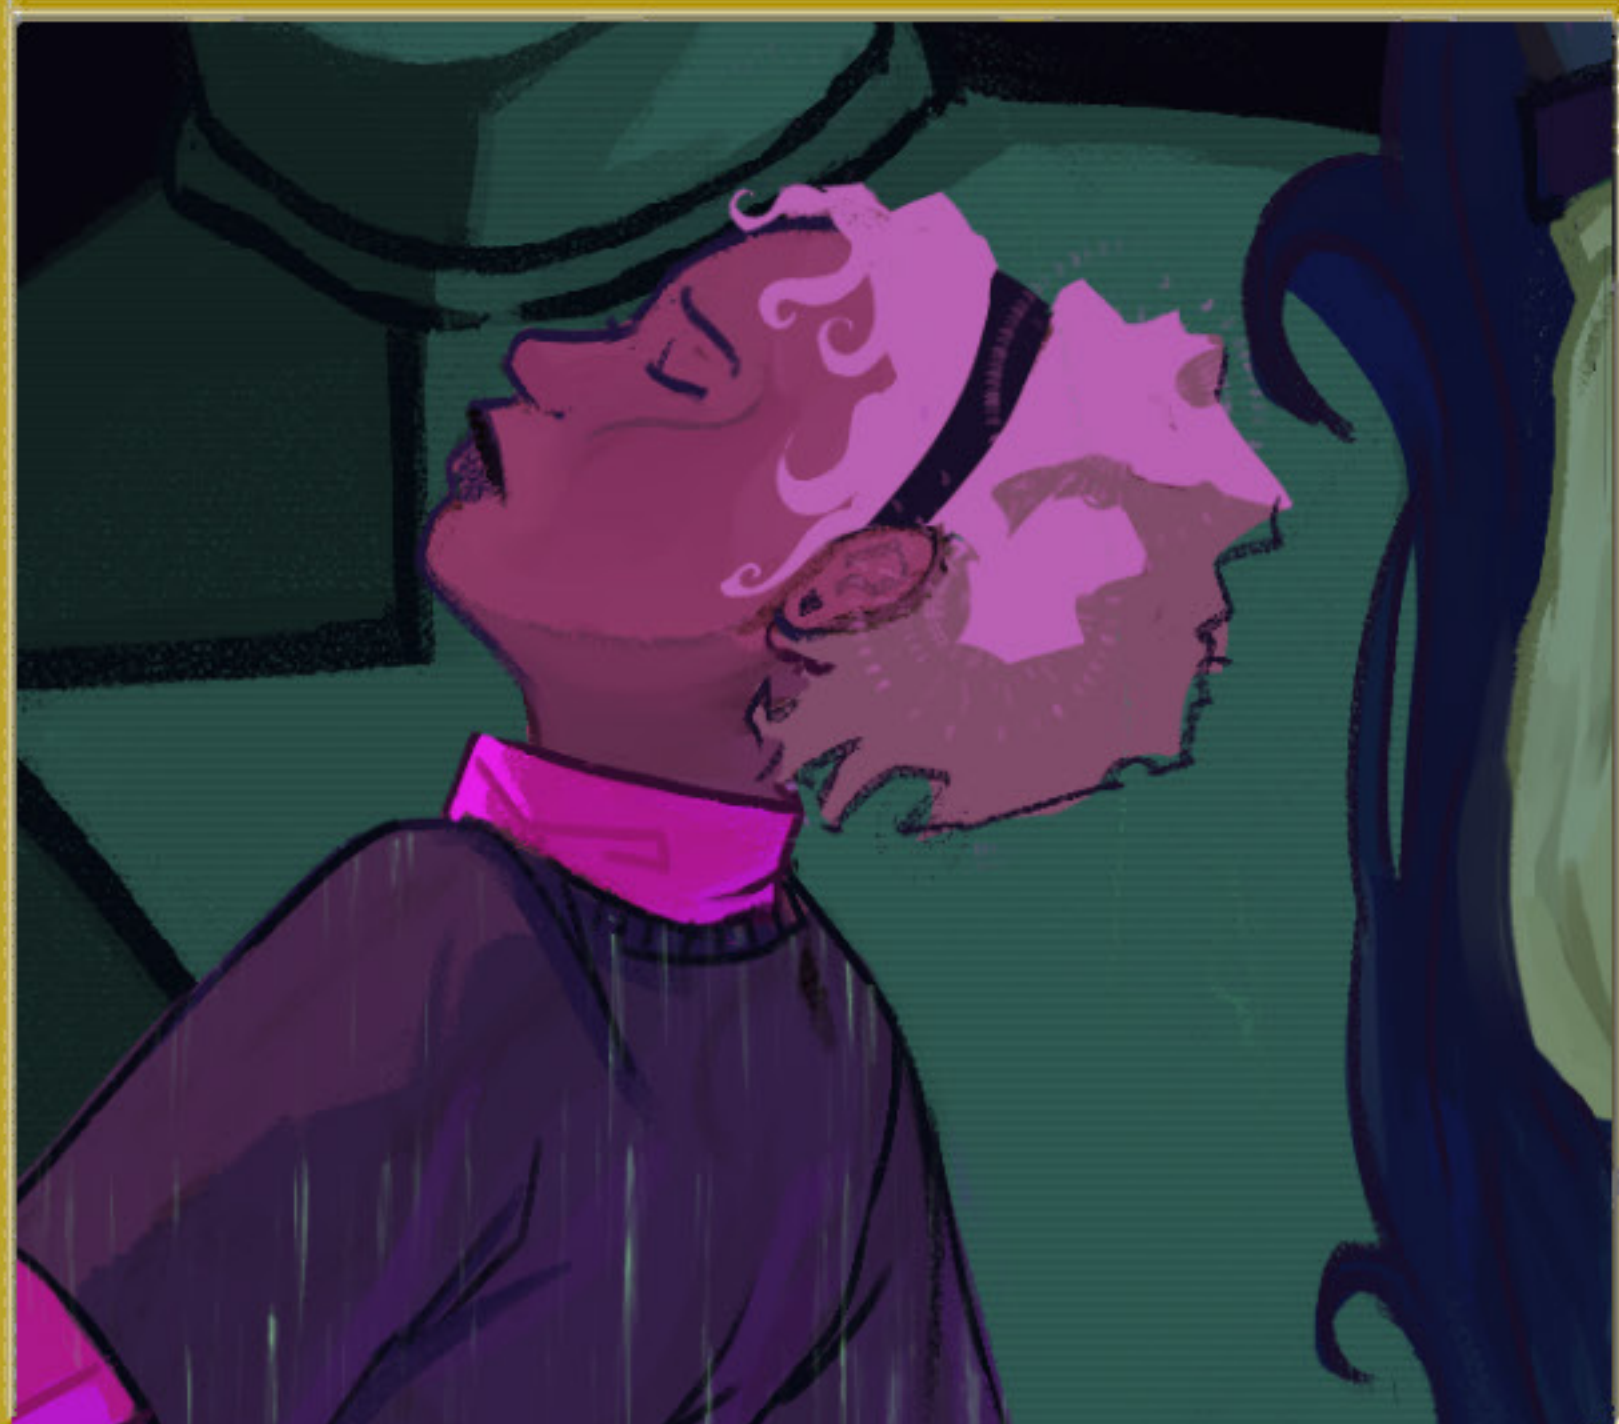

Reading Homestuck was my canon event. I've made some of my best friends and worst enemies through this webcomic and I wouldn't trade it for the world!

CHARLZ

clambuoyance (twitter/tumblr/instagram)

Homestuck was one of the first major fandoms I joined and the one that has arguably left the biggest impact on myself and my art. I met many friends through Homestuck (that I'm still friends with!) and wanted to become an online artist myself because of a lot of other Homestuck fan artists!

GORDON

2bencats (twitter/instagram/tumblr)

This webcomic did something irreversible to my brain. So much of Homestuck is made of nothing but a love to create, and the adoration I feel for this silly cast and brilliant universe is unshakable. Despite its infamous reputation and turbulent history in internet fandom, I'd give anything to read and experience Homestuck for the first time again.

NICO

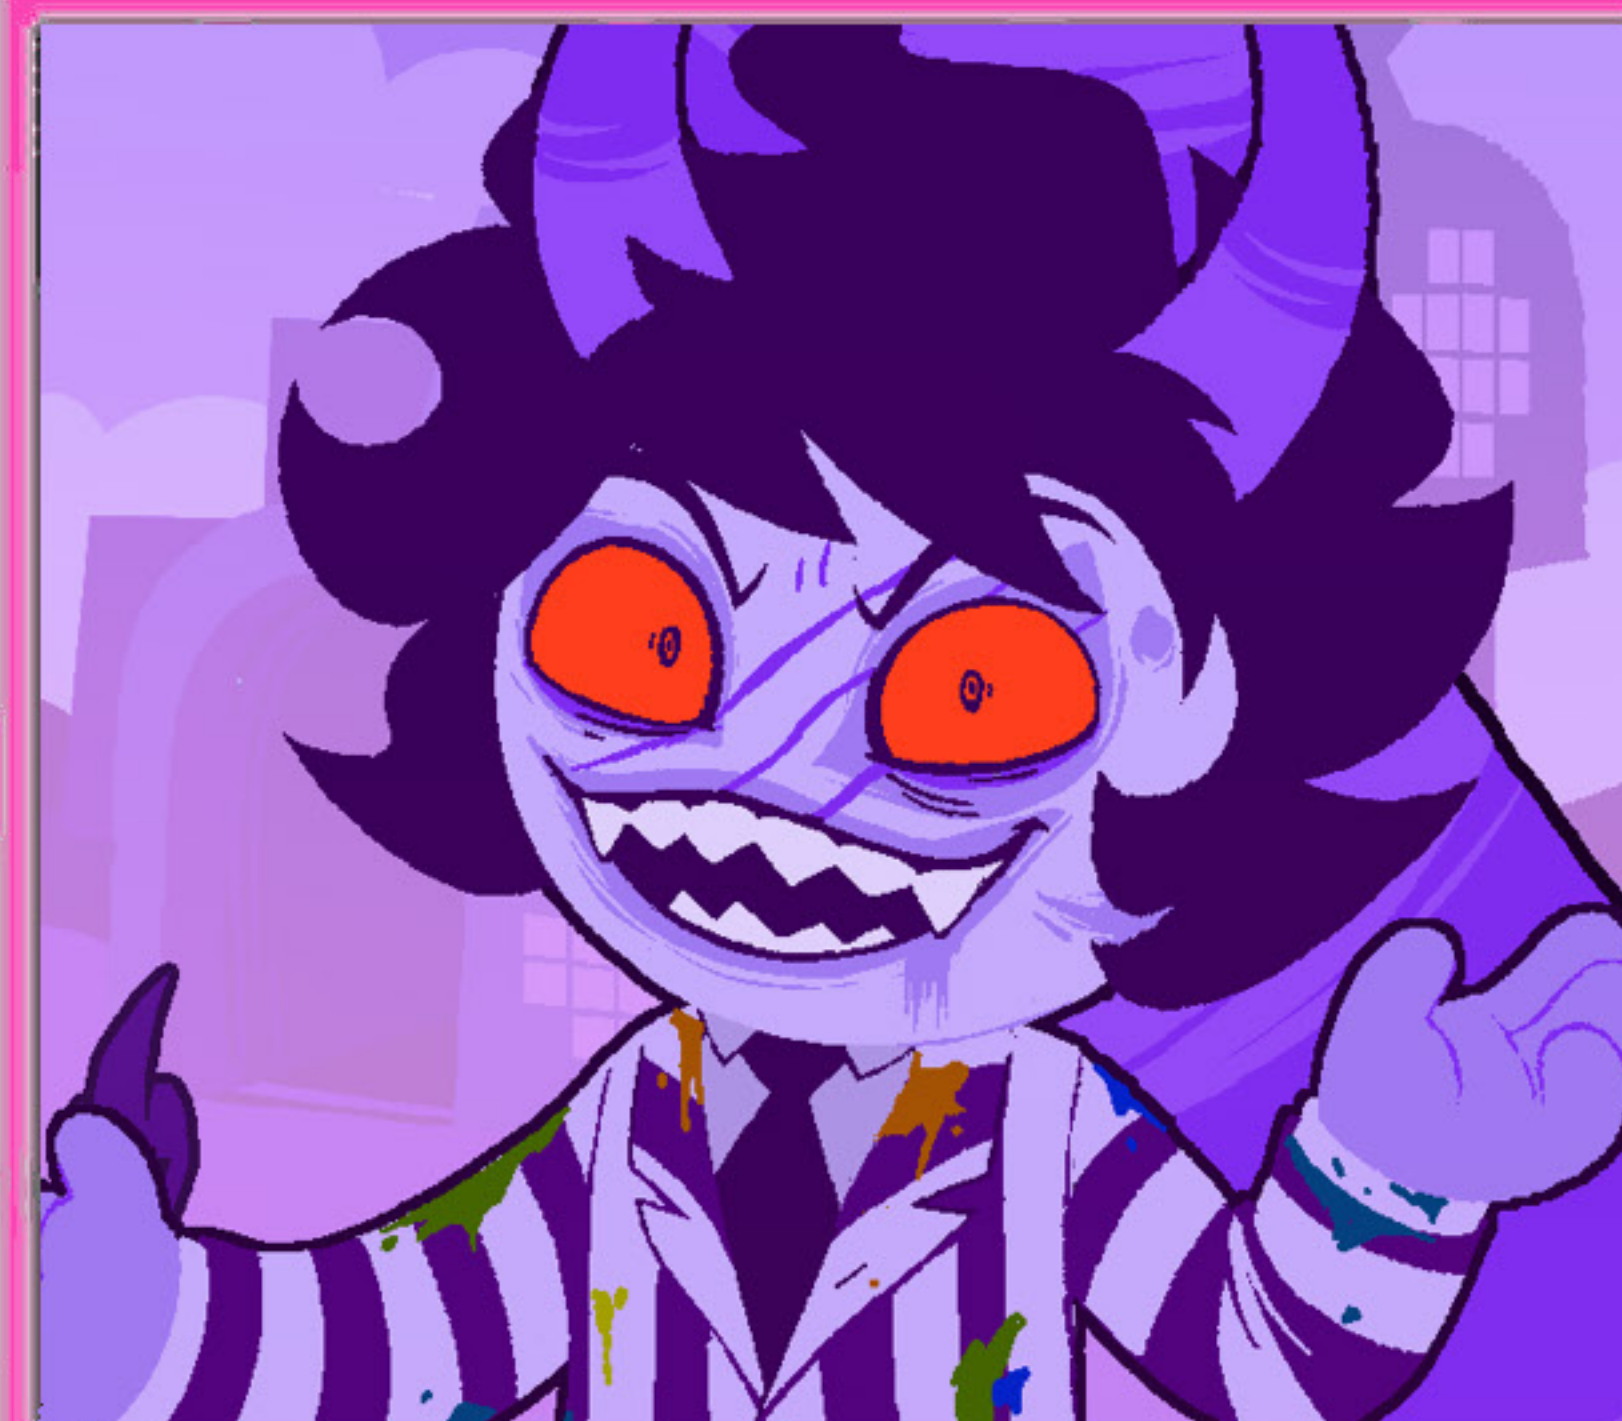

indigonite0 (twitter)
indigonite (tumblr)

With an ambitious story and unbelievably creative fans, this comic has, no doubt, left its mark on the lives of many - mine included. It caused irreversible damage to the way I look at zodiac signs, but I think that's a small price to pay for all the great memories. Wouldn't be where I am today without it.

BEEZLEBOBA

beezleboba2 (twitter)
onlykarkat (twitter)

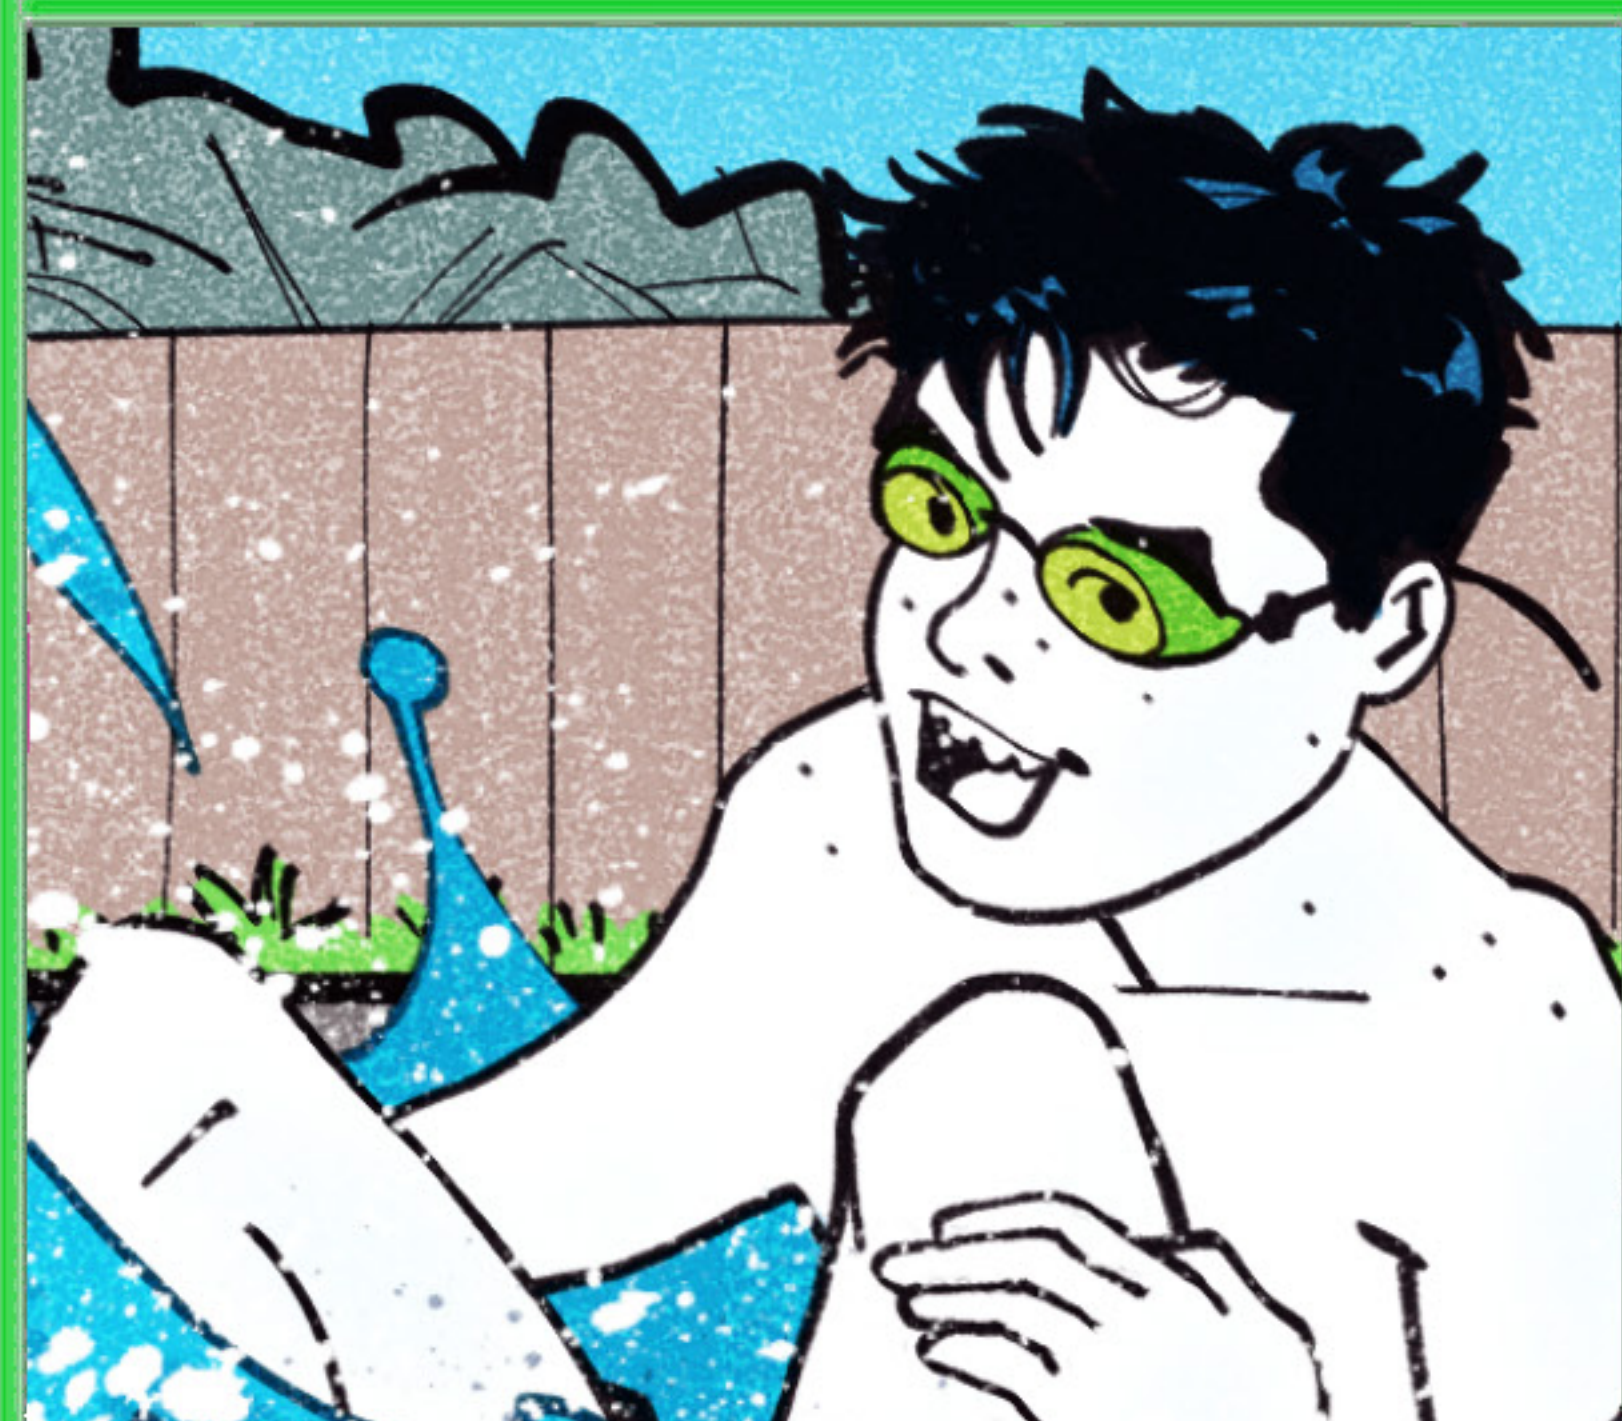

Homestuck introduced me to friends and peers. It may not be my cup of tea anymore, but it'll always be important to me.

AWKWARD

awkwarddoesanart (tumblr)

I still can't seem to escape this place after 5 years!! The Homestuck fandom been the main home for my artwork for a LONG time now an definitely the first place where I felt truly confident in my work. My piece itself is pretty self-indulgent, Aradia's always been my favourite character and I really enjoy working with flashy lights and chunky textures.

DEACON BLUES

protagonist_of (twitter)
deacblues (tumblr)

A lot of big things happened to me in 2020, reading Homestuck was one of them. It got me drawing again, and those drawings brought me an audience (something I never thought I'd have) and introduced me to a host of wonderful artists (who I'm proud to call my friends). Later, when I learned I was nearsighted, Homestuck made me buy square glasses.

SOMA

somastuck (tumblr/twitter)
somrtins (instagram)

My homestuck phases may come and go, but I'm sure I'll always have a dedicated spot for it in my heart. I've made friends I'll always cherish and found many incredible artists because of it.

MAKANIOVERLORD

MAKANIOVERLORD (instagram/tumblr)
hawtyuris (twitter)

This webcomic and its fandom taught me about not only drawing but writing from all perspectives to provide dimensionality to a story; if every character was working toward the same objective from the same viewpoint, they feel more like clones of the creator rather than their own people. I've learned so much from other creators in this fandom regarding character design as well, being pushed constantly to illustrate characters rarely seen in mainstream media. If it wasn't for my experience with Homestuck, I feel like my writing and illustration would still be in a cookie cutter box era, so I'm grateful for everything I've learned.

JOJRO

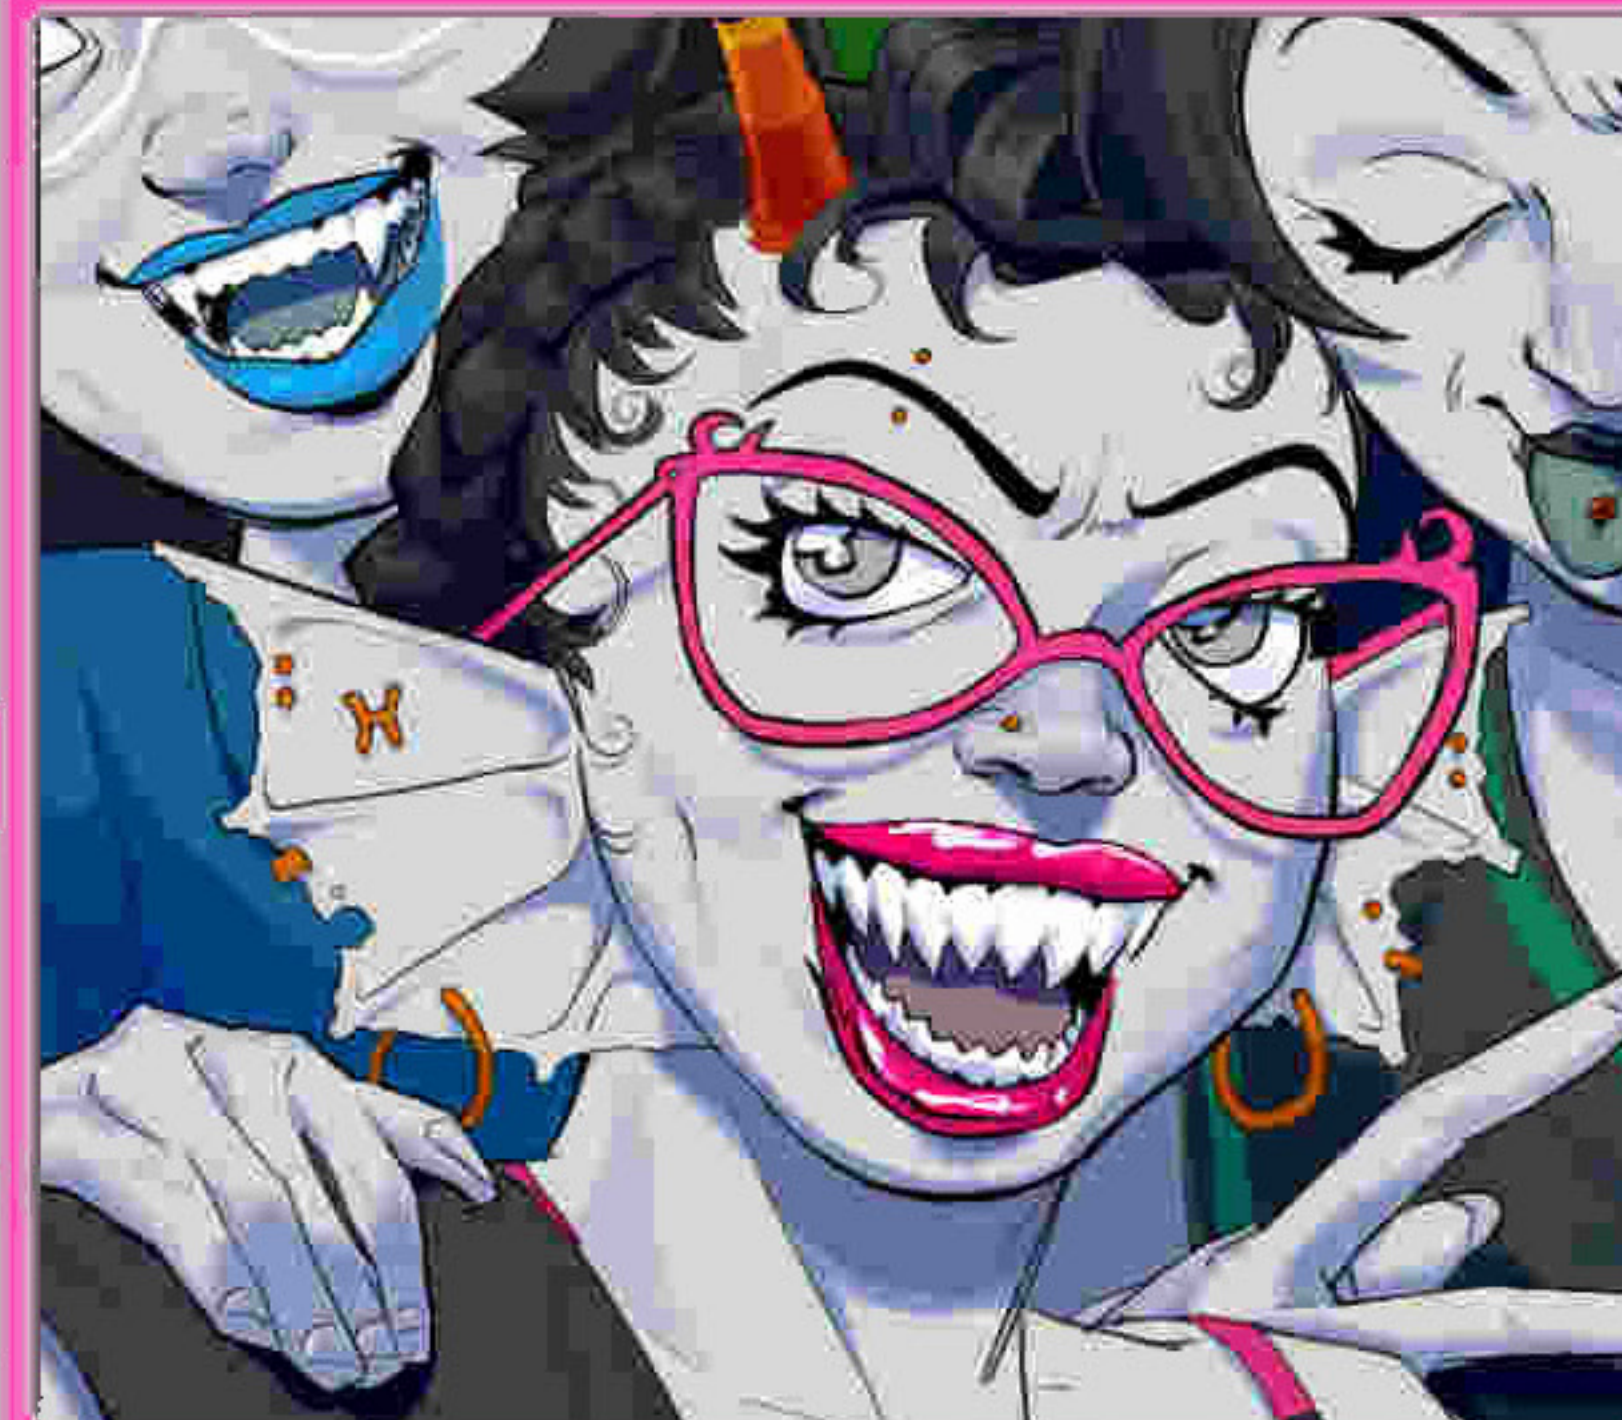

jojro0 (twitter/tumblr)
joj.draws.things (instagram)

I've been in this fandom for a long time, and the passion the community would show every update inspired me to get better at drawing Homestuck means a lot to me, and I often wonder about what might have happened to the kids had they never played SBURB. I like to think they would meet up and go on a road trip and make happy memories.

MIO

marinaraimpasta (twitter)

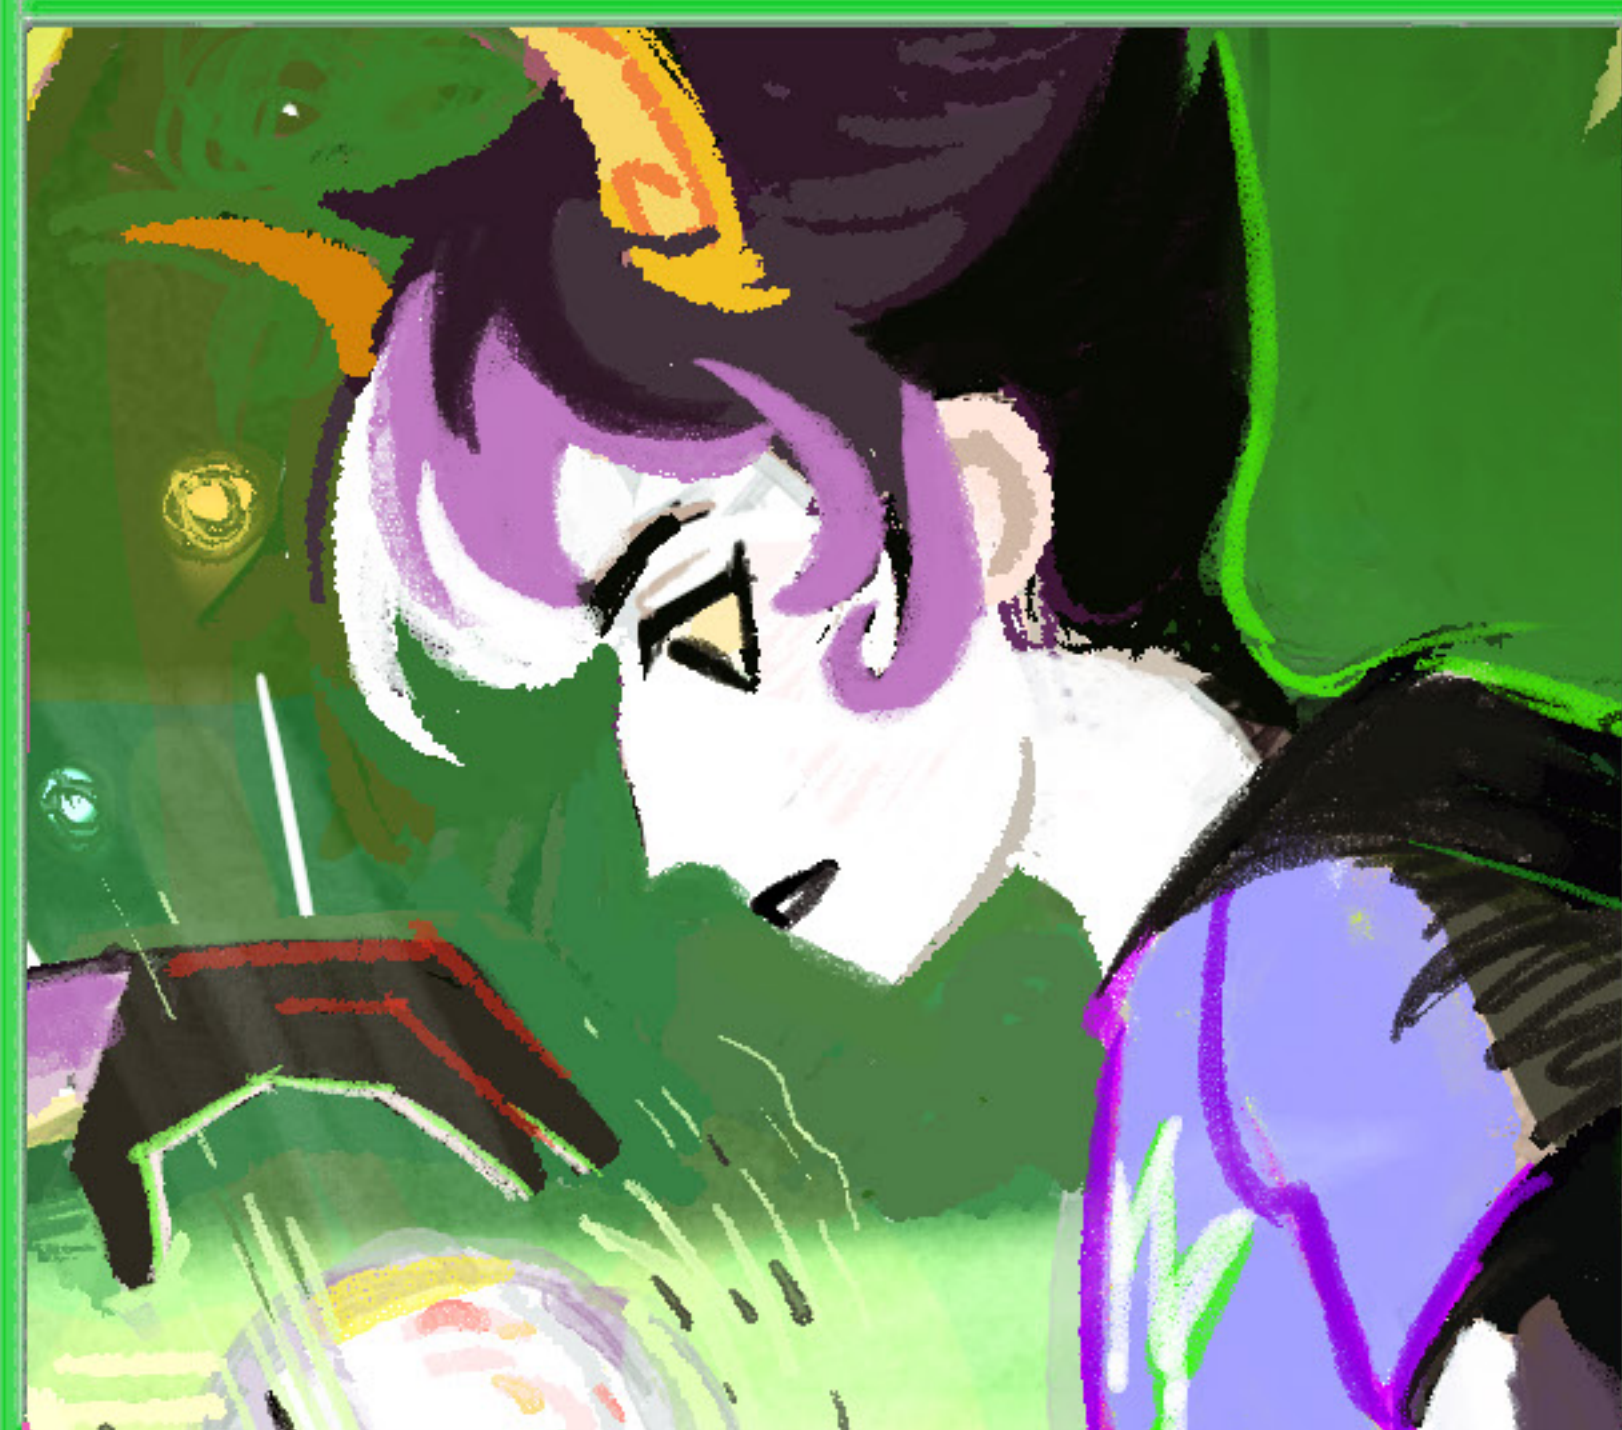

When I was 11 I got into homestuck because of all the memes and art I saw on deviantart and tumblr at the time. It really influenced the way I spoke and interacted with people, and as I got older it has latched onto me like a tumor.

SHARK

melonsharks (twitter/tumblr)
melon.sharks (instagram)

Been into homestuck since middle school and it changed the way I perceive art and has absolutely broken the limitations of media to me... Art can be done in so many different ways and homestuck is proof of that. It's also how I met so many of my dear friends! I don't think I could ever let it go, even if I tried.

PAPERSEVERYWHERE

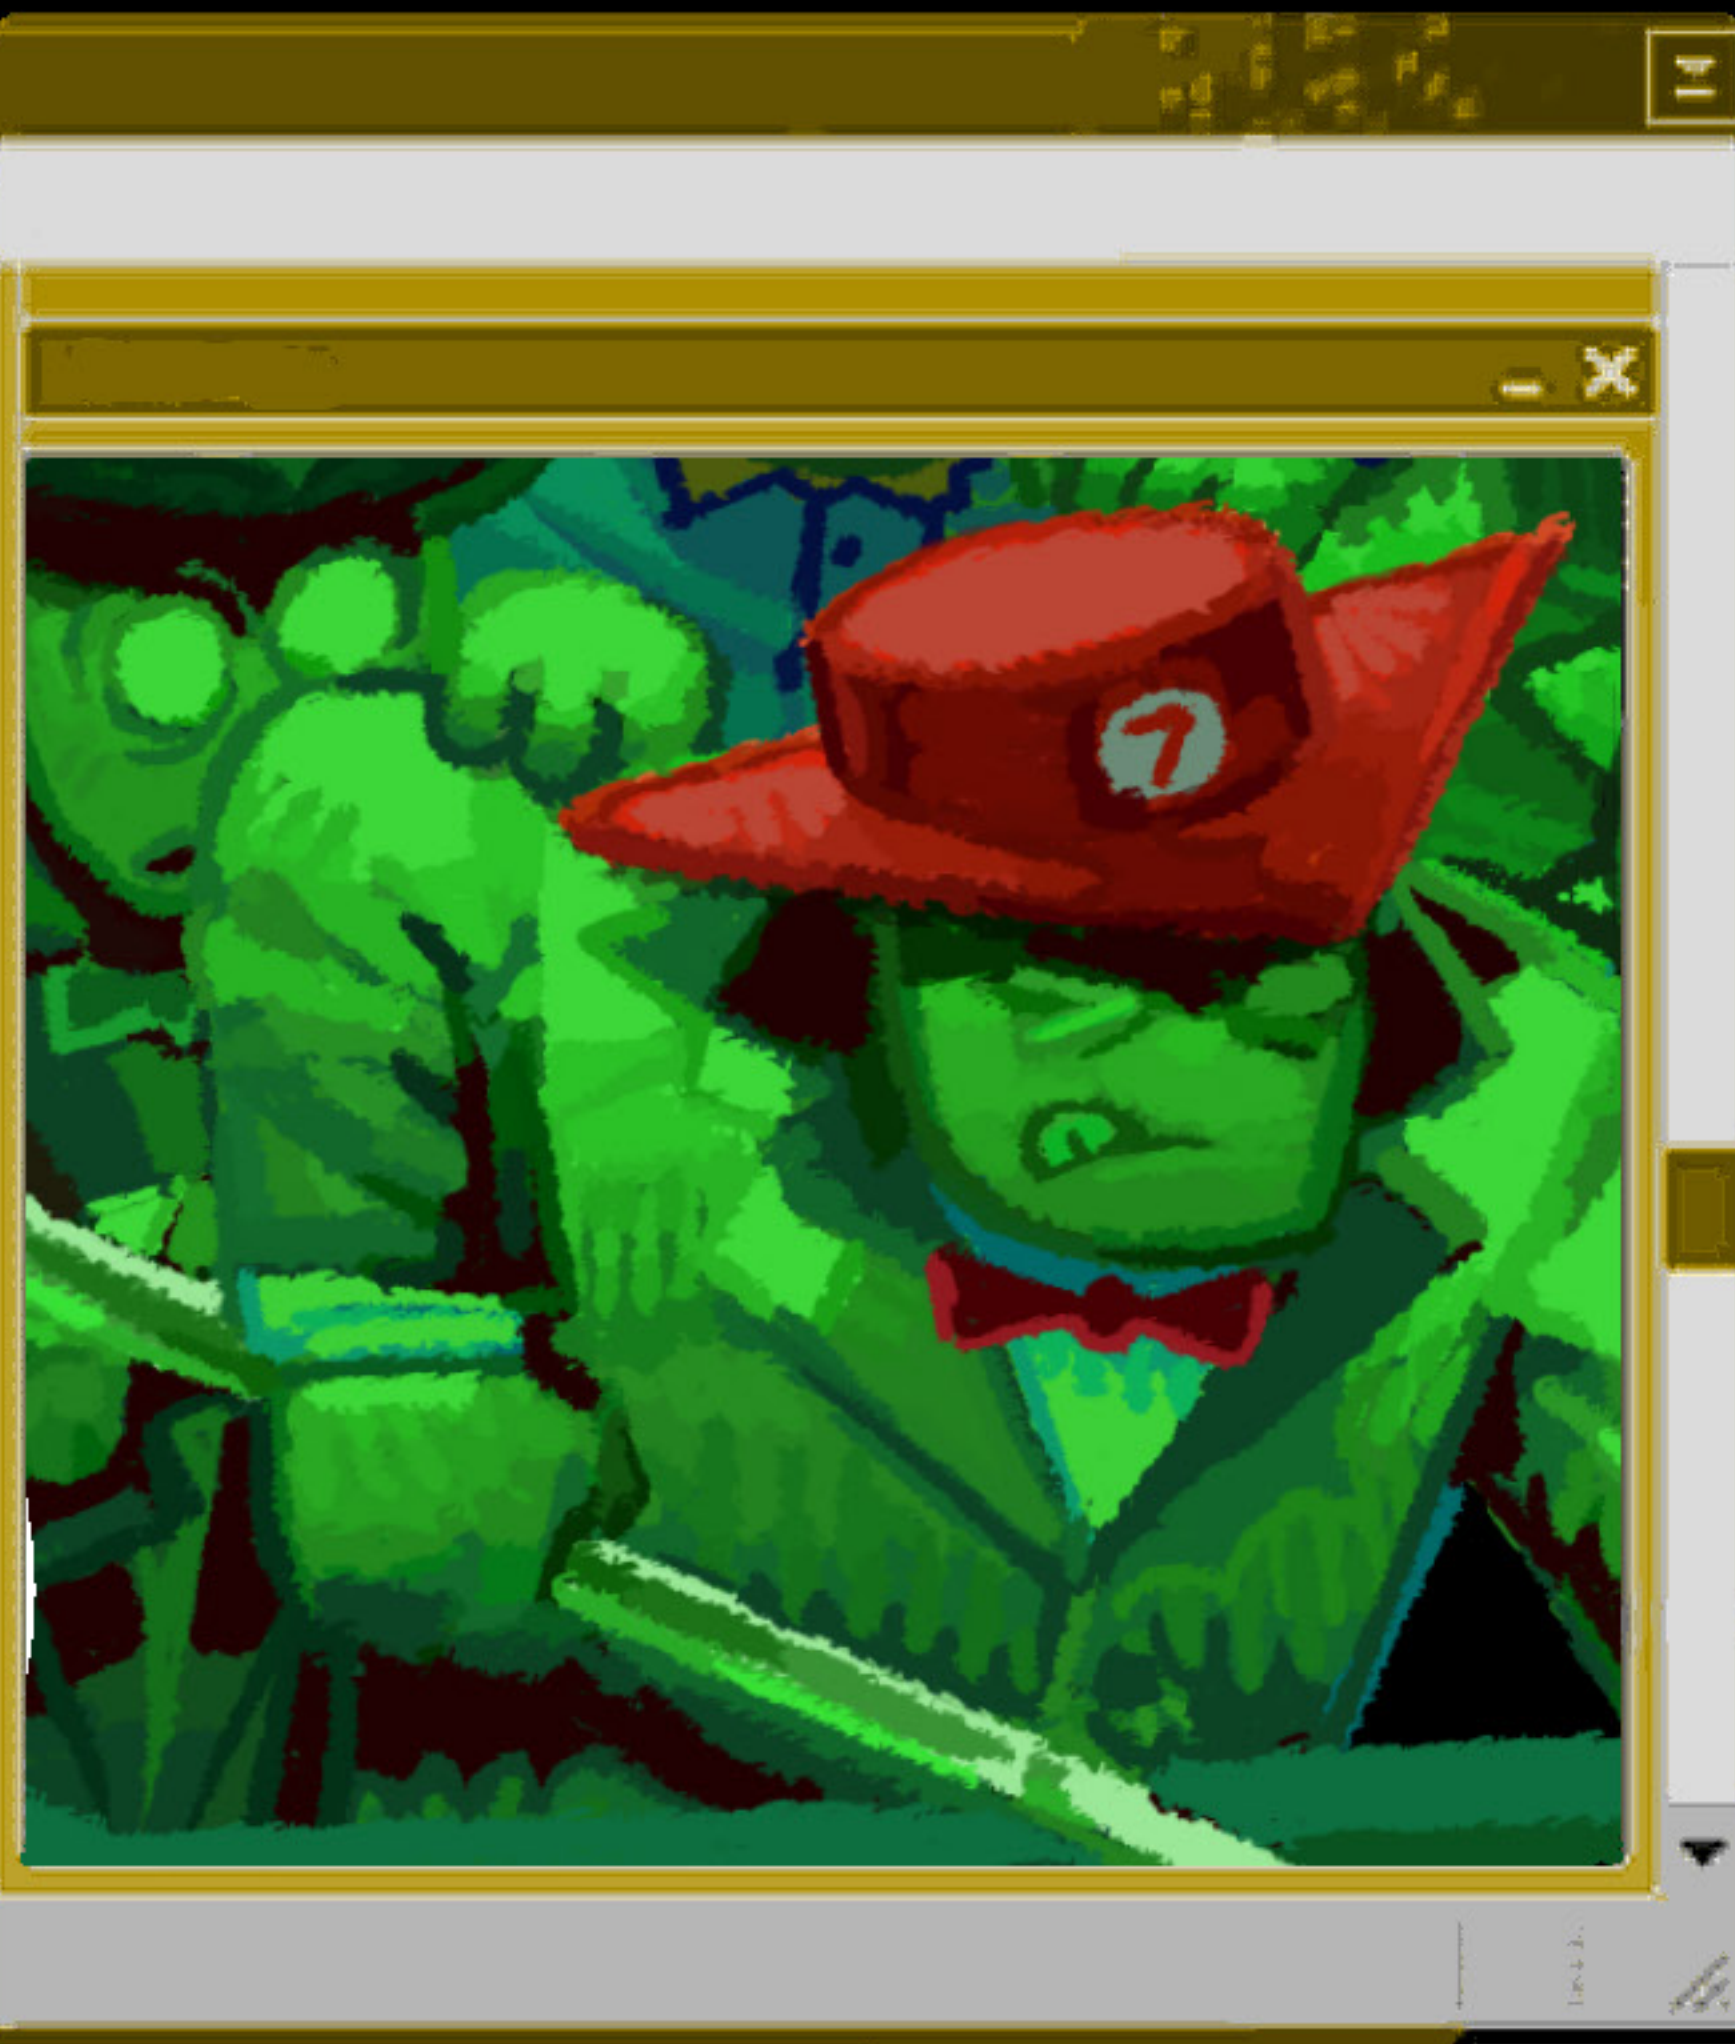

I have a lot of nostalgia for this silly, ambitious, and amazing webcomic. A lot of great memories and crazy bursts of creativity came out of this work for me, and I will never forget that.

FANGS

umefangs (twitter)

Homestuck has honestly opened so many doors for me. If it wasn't for one of my friends introducing me to it I would have missed out on very important moments and people in my life! Although I'm a late (2020) fan of homestuck, I've met countless welcoming communities and close friends who I'll never forget. The artists of the homestuck community never cease to amaze me with their talent, and making fantrolls is so much fun!

LOBSTERLOVER

lobster-lover (tumblr)
lobsterlover (twitter)

Although a late Homestuck bloomer, it's done a lot for me since I got around to reading it. It really gets you drawing like crazy when you think about it long enough. I've made some of my dearest friends through our shared love of those funny green guys.

HOB SYLLWIN

hobsyllwin (tumblr/newgrounds/bluesky)

I've been into Homestuck for a decade now, and it is just as much my whole world now as it was when I first read it at the age of 12. It made me into the creative I am now, and I would have nothing without it; or, at the very least, nothing I made would have the same spark of free-flowing ingenuity as it does! Have Homestuck to thank for everything I have now, and I will continue showing my gratitude to it for the rest of my life.

CHUMI

I think the zine is full of really really good stuff! Have fun at the convention, and read Homestuck: Beyond Canon!

OLLY

4-murasame (tumblr)

in the time since i was approached for this zine i've moved house, graduated, changed gender, found love, lost it again, and stopped being a fan of homestuck. jig saw was the biggest hero that the world will never know.

PENCIL

sopordeficiency (tumblr)

Getting into Homestuck for me was like finally getting into fandom for the first time, not only did I make friends but I grew as an artist and person because of it. Most of what I've done until today wouldn't be possible without first having experienced it within Homestuck, including coming out and working on big projects and loving it with all my heart. Here's to being a fan and creating!

LUX LUSUS

luxlulus (bluesky/tumblr)

Homestuck has inspired me a lot as an artist. It made me want to get out of my comfort zone and try new things! I also made some great friends thanks to it, and it got me to contribute to my first ever zine - the very same you are reading right now!!

KARMA KOO

LeFruitcakeVEVO (twitter)

I got into homestuck during a time where I felt creatively bankrupt, I wasn't happy with the direction of my art and considered stopping altogether. But the story and varied artstyles genuinely encouraged me to get back into it, and now I feel much more confident with my art and design skills (it's also made me really favour bright colours but you didn't hear that from me)!

PANCAKEMO

pancakemolybdenum (tumblr)

reading homestuck in the summer of 2011 permanently changed my whole attitude to art and illustration by introducing me to styles other than the typical anime/manga style i had felt constrained to with some goal of "perfect beauty". the thousands of different styles and design interpretations, and the celebration of this variety, was completely new to my sheltered weeb sensibilities! it opened my eyes to a whole new world and is genuinely why i am the person i am today.

AJ SUNNY

appl_juice42 (twitter)
aj_sunnio (instagram)

Homestuck means everything and beyond. It vastly influenced the way I create art and shaped a big part of my personality growing up. Each character holds a special place in my heart (especially the Striders!) and Homestuck has been and continues to be an inspiration to many others. I'm really happy to join a cool project that evokes so much nostalgia :)

YOOP

yooptheyot (twitter/instagram/tumblr)

I've joked before that Homestuck has sort-of irrevocably wedged itself into my life, but I believe it's true! I can see myself one day as a shriveled, geriatric man scribbling Kanaya Maryam on my dinner napkins. And damn it all, it's made me a better artist and a happier person! A karkalicious 2009 to you all, and to you all a good night ^^

MARIBOO

tentapillar (twitter)

Was an unique webcomic experience that you can't possibly find anywhere else. At first, it was just another fandom space but eventually I got serious about studying what made homestuck great for me and since then, it has influenced my personal work on a subatomic level.

ROAD TRIP

BY OUROBORISTA (COMPANION PIECE TO JOJRO)

JOHN: you know we're never gonna get any where if we keep stopping for every nice bit of scenery, right?

ROSE: But is it not a hallowed truth that journeys unerringly outshine their destination? That road trips are more than the distance between two cartesian points?

JOHN: great to hear that the philosophers agree on fun things being fun for once, but i'm just saying that this "road trip" has seen very little road so far.

JOHN: it's mostly been stops so dave can take pictures of dead things and so jade can touch alive things.

JADE: theres just so much... stuff!!!

JADE: i know im probably being annoying but its kind of mindblowing to see how the earth is so much larger than a single island

JADE: like prospit and our lands but more varied

JADE: every few steps there is a new plant or bug or view

JADE: and i knew that

JADE: of course i knew that JADE: but it doesnt really click when all you have is that one place :(

JADE: dave do you get that?

JADE: dave?

DAVE: yeah sorry just didnt expect to be called out on my stringent as fuck childhood ban on grass touching

DAVE: getting read to filth out here

DAVE: like yeah i guess in between all the deranged situational combat training bro never thought to prepare me for any environment that isnt a single texas apartment

DAVE: everything a child needs in one convenient package developmental psychologists hate him

DAVE: but like at the same time i probably never would have played sburb if id had this amount of access to dead bugs so thats gotta balance out the inscrutable cosmic scales somehow ROSE: Excellent deflection, Strider. Truly artisan. But you're right, Jade. I think even with less tightly circumscribed childhoods the mind falters at actually understanding scale without singular points to take refuge in.

ROSE: Lovecraft knew to make his gods immeasurable by standard instruments since vastness is eldritch all by itself.

JOHN: well i think it's pretty.

JOHN: and i don't mind stopping all the time.

JOHN: now that we have earth back we can take as long as we want :)

DAVE: and they were all like "cmon man" and "get outta here" and "stop playing shitty dubstep in the library" and i was like "how about you respect my artistic vision"

Betty Crocker

Betty Crocker's COLORVISION CAKE

Follow easy directions for yellow two-egg cake printed on Betty Crocker PartyCake Mix package. Just before mixing all you do is stir three table spoons of your favorite fruit (flavored Human Tears just as it comes from your nasolacrimal ducts into PartyCake ingredients. (Cake shown is Chocolate.)

COLORVISION ICING

Mix, in top of double boiler..... all the remaining fruit-flavored Human Tears 1 cup sugar in both of your nasolacrimal ducts 1/2 tsp. cream of tartar
1/2 cup egg whites (2 small) 1/2 cup water

Place, over boiling water and beat on high speed of electric mixer or with rotary beater, look at my dumb children using spoons to stir my Party CakeMix. Embarrassing, now I realize I haven't raised them properly. Remove from over boiling water and beat about one minute longer. Oh yeah... and the batter too.
